Duo-Pianists, Bartlett, Robertson To Open Concert-Lecture Series

Married Couple To Give Concert

Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson

Opening artists of the 1946-47 Middlebury Concert-Lecture series will be Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson, due-pianists, who will play here on October 15 at 8.15 p.m. in the Middlebury high school gym.

Miss Bartlett is a native of England and "is considered one of England's most beautiful women," having been painted many times by distinguished artists, said the press book of the artist.

Mr. Robertson was born in Northern Scotland and is an M.A. of Edinburgh University.

The couple met at the Royal Academy of Music in London and after their marriage decided to combine their talents in two-piano recitals. Together they gave more than 100 concerts a year, having toured all of Europe, South America, South Africa, Mexico, the United States and Canada. In this country they have played with practically every major orchestra.

Both artists began their training in music at early ages. Miss Bartlett loved music from childhood and she wrote her first composition at the age of seven. Recently she composed an Elizabethan Suite which has been recorded.

Mr. Robertson made his first concert appearance with his sister at the age of four and could play the organ at five.

Midd's Panthers Make Rousing Debut With Fierce Struggle Against Williams

A. Ronni McKenney '48

Did you cut your 11.30 class Saturday? Did you join the jeep, bus, convertible, sedan, airplane brigade which descended upon Williamstown?

Enthusiastic Audience

If so, you were part of the most hilarious spirit-sending crowds that Midd has fostered for three or four years. In spite of defeat, Midd's football team can have the satisfaction of knowing that it performed before a comparatively large and an extremely enthusiastic Middlebury audience.

Referee Panned

The first touchdown in favor of the Panthers was all the intoxication the Midd fans needed. From there on in a rather select group in the bleachers kept up one of the fastest repartees with one sour William-ite in the back row. All tracks were directed at the referee. . . .

"Say, ref, you've carried the ball more than anybody in the game."

"The game is over . . . . score: Referee 12, Middlebury 6."

"Hey, Cyclops, think of the wife and kiddies! Remember on which side your bread is buttered."

However, in true unbiased sportsmanship, the Panther crowd never let the ref give Midd a favorable decision without pleading with him to look again and make sure he wasn't making a mistake.

Peppy Cheerleading

Such jovial jeerings continued throughout the game—so much so that the loudest of the cheering was left up to Midd's inimitable eleven cheerleaders. Their peppy debut was so successful that some of the Williams boys were heard to remark,

"Say, there may be something to this coed business after all!"

During the half your reporter heard some of the Williams crowd spout their opinions on the outcome of the game. Seems a lot of the "inside" fellows had bet on Midd as a sure thing! Imagine!

Student Support

Saturday's exodus was only a beginning, we hope. With all the vehicles on Midd's campus there is no reason why our team shouldn't have ample support at all away games. And if the opponent's location always has such an inviting town as Bennington to pass through, there should be no lack of support.

Committee Seeks Students' Opinions On '47 Conference

Students Asked to Submit Preferred Theme For Debate

The following article was submitted by the Policy Committee of the Culture Conference.

Plans are already under way for Middlebury's Fifth Annual Cultural Conference which will be held this year on March 8 and 9. As many of you know, this is the week-end devoted to discussion of some major problem by prominent men in all fields of endeavor. In the past we have had such outstanding participants as former Senator Warren Austin, Rockwell Kent, David L. Thompson, Muriel Rukeyser, George deSantillana, Dorothy Canfield Fisher, Hazel Scott, Frederick L. Schumann and George N. Schuster. Through their talks, student questions and discussions with these men and women, many of us have found new light on an old problem, new ideas and new inspiration.

Student Poll

This year, the committee wishes to let student opinion decide what shall be the central theme of discussion. What is the question of greatest concern to you? We here submit, for your consideration, several ideas which may serve as a guide to your choice. We ask you to consider them carefully, and to weigh them against the questions in your own mind. Check the topic which you would like discussed or write your own idea in the blank space provided.

When you have done this, clip the coupon and turn it in to one of our representatives after Chapel on Friday or Saturday, or drop it into the Free Speech box in the Bookstore.

Preliminary tryouts for parts in the play were held October 9 and 10, with final auditions to be held Friday, Oct. 11. The plot concerns, generally, the life of a Norwegian family in America, and, in particular, the character of Mama who holds the family together during economic crises by giving them a feeling of security.

Arthur K. D. Healy and Charles H. Kitchell '47 will work on the decorations, while John C. Dawson '48, is now working on floor plans and layouts.

On Tuesday night, Oct. 8, beginning at 7.30 p.m., the players held open house for all Freshmen interested in dramatic work of any kind. Help Wanted

Last spring when a large number of men returned to this campus, this column expressed the hope that they would seriously consider the pros and cons of extra-curricular activities and make an effort to assume once more the role of active participation that they played before the war. Apparently the cons won. There is still a predominance of women's leadership in many organizations.

When one concentrates on the important details that make any project a working one for a period of two or three years, one is bound to loose the impartial outlook necessary to bring about change and rejuvenation. Staleness is almost inevitable. It takes only a minimum of observation to realize that this state of dormancy is already beginning to descend on some parts of the college life.

Peace-time enrollment proportions were eagerly awaited by those who were here during the years of abnormalcy. It cannot be denied that the hoped for vitality has returned in some quarters. Just the desire for a college spirit of some kind has added life already to a fairly disunited college body.

But this is only the beginning.

Every individual who considers the possibility of contributing to any activity like the ones which exist here must, and usually does, first decide why he is interested. Either he likes the organization as it is and considers it worthy of continuation in its present condition, or he feels that basically it has a valid and necessary purpose that the present organization has lost sight of. In either case, his participation should be undertaken with the aim of satisfying his reasons for interest in it.

Disappointment has unfortunately been the only fruit of anticipation in several cases.

If we knew a specific remedy for such a situation, we would have little trouble in effecting the change that many feel necessary. Naturally enough, the transition from exclusive action by the women's college to action that represents the best efforts of both colleges could not be effected in one short term, or even in one year. But the progress toward this change could be more rapid and more evident than it now is.

College activities are more than mere excuses to put in time. Each one is a miniature social institution, and as such requires indoctrination or orientation into its methods and purposes. The rate of orientation depends solely upon the strength of the individual's desire to be more than a name on the membership list.

The support and leadership of the men's college is not yet complete. We will probably have to change many of our fixed ideas to make full use of the new ideas we hope they want to contribute.

The important thing is for the men's college to make their constructive criticisms and to help accomplish what they feel should be done, And it is equally important for the existing spheres of interest and activity, which are generally classed as extra-curricular activities, to go more than half way in welcoming and utilizing the new blood they have been demanding ever since the return of a large number of civilian men to this college.

Prof. Madden Aided Testing Of Naval Pilots

TREATED CASES BY PSYCHOLOGY

J. Anne Saurman '48

One of seventy aviation psychologists in the country, William F. Madden now Assistant Professor of Psychology at Middlebury, helped choose men for the Naval Aviation Program during the war.

Professional Training Used

His work as a lieutenant in the Navy gave him the chance which few Army or Navy personnel have: to put into practice his professional training, which, in his case, was in the field of psychology.

In one of the most interesting fields of work to come out of the war, each of the seventy psychologists was assigned to a different base. During the three years of his service, Mr. Madden was stationed at the Naval Aviation Cadet selection board in Boston, at the Naval Flight Preparation School at Williams College, and at the Naval Air Station in Norman, Okla.

Tests Determine Abilities

The work which Mr. Madden did was to test candidates for entrance into the schools for naval pilots. To choose men who would be most apt to successfully complete the rigorous routine of a Naval Aviation Cadet, a system of testing was evolved. Three particular tests were found to be the most competent in predicting the success or failure of the cadets, and the administration of these tests lay in the hands of Mr. Madden. Should a candidate fail the tests, his chances of becoming a cadet were automatically nullified, and further opportunities were impossible.

After the applicants were actually in training, Mr. Madden then had to help eliminate those who had trouble. He acted as consultant with student instructors, analyzed possible causes of difficulty, and salvaged as many students as he could. The necessity for training men in quantity as well as in quality was imperative, because of the demand for aviators and because of the increasingly complicated structure of the airplanes they were to fly. Special ability and temperament were requisites for pilots in order for them to handle planes effectively.

Personal Problems Handled

Delving into straight psychology, Mr. Madden handled difficulties among personnel such as emotional upsets and personal problems. These psychologists held direct contact with the men all through their flight training. These seventy men have had training in clinical psychology, testing, learning. Other fields which they enter are night vision, accident prevention, and speech techniques for aviation radio cadets. Beside the chance to acquire flight time, Mr. Madden had the opportunity to experience some of the momentary worries of a pilot in such times as landing and throwing a plane into spins.

Drive For Memorial Fund Will Open At Homecoming

Alumni to Execute, Plan Entire Fund Campaign

Charles H. Pope '48

A prophet is without honor in his own home, is an oft quoted bit, but, according to Edgar J. Wiley '13 and Stanley J. Wright '18 of the Middlebury Memorial Fund Drive, for an institutional fund campaign, it is a prime requisite that home be the backbone of the endeavor. Because of this, a comprehensive enlightenment campaign will begin on Homecoming Weekend, Oct. 12. Mr. Wright and Mr. Wiley are the backbone of the drive. As Mr. Wiley pointed out, with the full support of the student body, the alumni can be counted on to give their wholehearted support, as many have already promised to do.

The system for the "Memorial Fund" drive will consist of purely voluntary contributions where a student chooses his own contribution and method of payment. To assist in making contributions, a committee of 25 students have been formed with Fred Williams '47, Sid Patchett '47, and Nancy Fitz '47 as co-chairmen. A representative has been appointed in each fraternity and sorority and all dormitories.

Midd Men Conduct Drive

The entire campaign is being planned and executed by alumni rather than a hired professional organization. This was done for two reasons, the most important being to avoid any sort of high-pressure promoting and let the loyalty of all Midd men carry the drive to a successful conclusion. The second and less important, but still strong reason, is to

Qualified Students To Be Offered Foreign Study

Opportunity for United States students to study at the University of Stockholm, beginning in the spring of 1947, has been announced by the American legation in Stockholm, Sweden.

G. I. or Not

All qualified candidates will be eligible for the course, although it was designed primarily to meet the needs of veterans studying abroad under the "G. I. Bill of Rights." The first semester's work, including intensive training in the Swedish language and Scandinavian institutions, will not preclude a knowledge of Swedish. In the following semesters, courses will be taught in the native language.

Tuition Costs

Students who have successfully completed one year of study in an accredited college or university, or its equivalent, are eligible for the course. Tuition costs and fees will amount to $250 per semester, and special assistance will be provided the students in obtaining board and room at reasonable cost. It is estimated by the Swedish Legation of the United States that students can live in Stockholm comfortably on from $65 to $100 a month.

'47 Spring Term

Further information on this course may be obtained from the Legation of Sweden, 1900 24th Street N. W., Washington, D. C., or the Institute of International Education, 2 West 45th Street, New York 19, N. Y. Applications are being received by the Institute of International Education and must be submitted before October 15, 1946. Successful candidates will be notified by December 20, 1946, and will have ample time to reach Stockholm for the beginning of the spring semester, February 15, 1947.

Has V. A. Approval

Veterans desiring to study under the G. I. Bill at the University of Stockholm should fill out and submit Form 1950 to the Veterans' Administration, Washington, D. C. The university is one of the outstanding institutions of Europe and has been approved by the Veterans' Administration for such study. American students desiring credit in an American university for their studies in Stockholm should secure the approval of the American Institution concerned before going to Sweden.

Big Business Boom Engulfs Midd Campus

Jo Buck

There used to be a time when "BT stood for "Big Time Operator," but w the advent of the post-war era in colle this meaning has changed to "Busin Transaction Organizer."

High-Pressure Stuff

Instead of conversations on schiz phrenia or dreaded pre-A's, the curr angle is high-pressure salesmanship the advantages of subscribing to Herald-Tribune or the Times. I did know there were so many dry-cleane and laundries this side of the Rockies, alone in "Unspoiled Vermont." Nobod going to starve in between meals th year, for sandwich concessions are profuse as dandelions in the springtim If any of you fellows want to be warme by the latest in 100% wool fashion, can't get it for you wholesale, but I kno where you can purchase the yarn reasonable rates and can also enlist knitter's aid for the proverbial "nomin fee."

"Flit" for Flys

Baby sitting is an up and coming av cation, which is not only a fairly lucra tive pastime, but a good practical way learning about what you might someda wish you'd learned about sooner. Som one could do a landslide business wi "Flit" for Forest, unless it's true th these flys have found the secret of pe petual youth.

Pin-Ball Concession

You could really hit the jackpot if yo had a pin-ball concession in the women dormitory waiting rooms to pass tim while waiting for your date to amb down.

The alert enterpriser who bought u some surplus armchairs and rented the in the Browsing room could retire com fortably upon graduation.

Don't hesitate if you've got the entre preneur's itch—now's the time to go int business.

(In the "hang-the-expense, give th canary another seed," spirit, I'll offe four back issues of the CAMPUS to any one who can tell me who this Wallo Williams is who wrote "Potential Pa thers" last week.)

SPORTS

BILLBOARD

To those of you who were unfortunate enough to miss the Williams tussle last weekend, this column is indeed sorry. It's been a long time since this reporter has seen a Middlebury ball club that has had as much drive and spirit as last week's aggregation and believe me, were the Ephmen scared!

Happened to walk near the hometown section during the half and the whole stand was talking of the determined Panther eleven.

The Middlebury crowd that followed the team on its first out-of-town jaunt was made up mostly of students, but a large proportion of our faculty, administration and townspeople, were on hand to watch the affair and as the cheerleaders will verify, they did yell, though by the time the third period commenced 50 percent of the gang were sidelined with hoarseness.

Williams never did get inside our 40-yard line during the initial stanza and if the breaks had been with us (and the referees), Mac would never have been tossed out of the game.

Bigotry if I ever saw it.

Seems that many of us remember a delayed purple and black clad arm slashing into a heap, long after the whistle blew—and by the way, those aren't our colors.

Be that as it may, guess the Williamstown optometrists aren't quite up to snuff.

Middlebury student fathers take note—did you notice the Williams baby carriage row at the game? Resembled Central Park on the first day of Spring. Plenty of room on Porter.

Some of the pickers had a rough time this past football Saturday, including this one. In fact, it cost a few bucks.

U. S. C. was beaten soundly in all departments by a powerful Ohio State outfit and except for the opening quarter, Oklahoma A. and M. might just as well have stayed home, for the Biblemen from Texas raised havoc to the tune of 54 to 7.

Same goes for Cornell—I wonder if anyone is going to stop that Army outfit this Fall? Notre Dame will have to play better than they did against Pitt—even though the final score found the Irish ahead by some four TDs.

Leading upsets last week: Northwestern's victory over a favored Wisconsin team and Indiana's surprise win from the Gophers of Minnesota, and leading the field, Navy's defeat at the hands of Lou Little's Columbians.

Which brings us back to the Williams game again—can't seem to stay away from it. Hats off to Johnny Kirk, Midd's No. 1 rooter, who had quite a time containing himself in the grandstand. Can't blame him!

If asked to pick the outstanding men of the game, an immediate reply would be: For Middlebury—Charlie Puksta and Johnny Corbisiero; for Williams—Downs, Shellenberger and Pat Higgins.

This weekend finds the Panther sharpening his claws for Trinity, coached by Dan Jessee. Previous records will be past the boards this Saturday at 2 p.m., but it is interesting to note that the Blue and Gold from Hartford were whitewashed 25 to 0 by Bates in their only game played so far this season.

Please don't get me wrong, this is going to be a battle, for looking over the Trinity roster, there are some big boys that have a wealth of experience behind them.

The Blue and White jayvee squad is growing. Seems that every time 4 p.m. rolls around and another practice session is under way, there are about ten new faces. At least that's the way it was last week.

Word has it that the combination of Guarnaccia and Chalmers are plenty rough!

First game this Friday afternoon at Williamstown. Hope the boys are more fortunate along the "officials" line.

First round in intramural tennis is underway, better get those matches finished before the cold weather sets in for a couple of months.

Homecoming always means party time and a chance to meet some old familiar faces of past years. From all reports the houses will be thrown wide-open.

Watch out for that!!

Surviving the war years is the traditionally famous decorations contest that will help Middlebury celebrate the homecoming week-end. For those of you who haven't seen the show, it's really quite a deal—at least it was prior to you know what—. Anyway, the houses will be decked out in their finest trimmings and coupled with the heavy social calendar, the few hours devoted to the yearly event should prove "relaxing."

Remember Greeks, the sky's the limit on those decorations—no particular theme has to be followed, nor are the expenses limited, but the house that wins will be the one that has the most original idea—regardless of cost.

Deadline is 7 a.m., Saturday, October 12, 1946.

Not much else this week—just WIN, that's all, just WIN.

Cheerleaders Elect Whittinghill, Wright

Anita M. Liptak '49

The Midd cheering squad has recently been completed with the addition of two freshman men, Dexter C. Whittinghill, Jr., and Charles R. Wright.

These two men plus three others who had been cheerleaders at Middlebury before the war compose the male contingent. Six women, all of whom were elected to the squad in the spring of 1946, complete the group.

The eleven cheerleaders made their first public appearance at the rally preceding the Williams game on Friday, Oct. 3, which they termed a "great success." The following day at Williamstown the squad found the Midd cheering section "very cooperative."

In spite of the success of their first endeavors, members of the group believe the rally this Friday, Oct. 11, could, with the participation of all students, prove an even greater inspiration to the team. The rally will directly precede Homecoming Weekend, and those alumni who will arrive early should be shown the most intense loyalty and spirit the students have to offer. The game with Trinity will be the first home game of the season, so if you can not support the team physically, be on hand Friday night to support them mentally.

The schedule for future games is as follows:

Midd Loses First Game To Williams

With the temperature near 85, Williams defeated Middlebury on Saturday, Oct. 5, before a capacity crowd at Weston Field, 12-6. This gives the Ephmen 19 wins and the Panther four in Midd-Williams games since 1906.

The Panther scored his first and only touchdown of the game in the second quarter. Williams punted from their 20-yard line, but the kick was blocked by Kaley. Teammate Meeker then scooped up the ball and made a touchdown run. Corbisiero tried for the point, but his kick went wide of the crossbars.

Williams sent right halfback Higgins into Midd's end zone on two occasions in the final quarter. The first scoring was made two plays after a Midd punt was blocked on the Blue and White nine-yard line. The second touchdown was the result of Higgins' line plunge from Midd's two-yard line. Both of Williams' attempts to convert were blocked.

In this first gridiron contest of the season, Midd used the "T" formation. Williams, on defense, used what may well be called an eight-man line in a 5-3-2-1 formation. In offensive plays the Purple relied on the triple wingback setup.

Midd J.V.'s Seek To Avenge Defeat Of Varsity Squad

Commencing a tough five game schedule tomorrow afternoon at Williamstown, Mass., against a favored Purple and Gold freshman eleven, Coach Sam Guarnaccia's J. V. football squad is rapidly approaching opening game form.

Majority of Men Green

Coach Guarnaccia, ably assisted by Coach John Chalmers, former pigskin star who is now in the economics department, is employing the same type of offensive and defensive formations that "Duke" Nelson is using with the varsity.

At the time of this writing, the squad numbers over 40 men, some having had experience on various prep and high school teams, but the majority of the candidates are green and untested. Their capabilities will remain unknown until a sufficient number of scrimmages and games are played.

Positions Still Open

Guarnaccia named these linemen that have shown promise in recent practices: Faber, Fraoli, DeSalvo, Staloff, Whitestone and Corwell; whereas Chalmers noted that Stearns, Phil Turnbull and "Stew" Washburn will no doubt be fighting for the starting quarterback assignment. Left half candidates are R. Fraoli and "Joe" Sackett, with the right half position filled either by Ryan or Tom Turner. Fullback berth is a toss-up between such men as Myrick, Armstrong and Donn John Barclay, portsided kicker and passer. Both coaches emphasize that all positions are still wide open and are bound to change from game to game, as men develop through the season and others are moved up to the varsity squad.

In addition to the three varsity home games, the jayvees will have two local contests, making a total of five football games that Middlebury will play on its own grounds.

Midd Eleven Meets Trinity On Porter Field October 12

Potential Panthers

Ken Moore

The pressure on college presidents by the student body—or Adam's atom theory—or why fears make beetles strap urchins to saplings—or could it be the Brown Wing headed by Joe Pew and Clare Booth? Well anyway now is the time for HOMECOMING (and this is the CAMPUS). It must be a genuine welcome back to the Alums and there will be a 100 percent turnout on Porter Field.

Touch Football

Last week the Sig Alphs started the 1946 football campaign with a clean-cut victory over the K. D. Rs. The fog hung low and there was darkness on the delta; but the speed of the Sig Alph backfield proved to be too much for the ranch house boys. On Thursday, the Dekes, spark-plugged by "Culberston" Means, outmaneuvered the lanky, green-clad Chipsies by the score of 9 to 6. Wally Hubbard, formerly a star end with his overseas outfit, was unable to pull in any passes. Friday the Sig Eps gained their first victory by forfeit over the Neutrals. Valentine is holding night scrimmages regularly. Theta Chis are planning to rely on speed with the return of Art Beuttner.

Rackets

The school tennis tournament is in full swing, and all varsity lettermen are eligible to participate with the neophytes of the racket business. Undoubtedly some of the new men will provide upsets. The winner of the tournament may be awarded the coaching berth of the Hepburn squad; whereas Phil Turnbull has already volunteered to direct the other coed dorms—Racketeer!

Ski Heil

Daily the ski team jogs five or six miles over hill and dale under the colorful foliage. The early start should be an asset by the time McGill and the warriors from Hanover arrive in town. Phil Deane looks in the pink of condition, as does Dick Westin, a Syracuse transfer.

Spiritual Riff

With the price of milk higher than the price of cows, the idea is that when you buy a potato farm you pay for it with potatoes. Kinsey says, "Decorate the Frats." Rice wants to meet personally everybody who returns. Salisbury will greet Buffalo, and two Vassar women will row up Champlain with the Radcliffe crew.—"With crimson and green eyes flashing, poor pains of Trinity—." If the Red Sox could play ball all year then Dr. Chalmers would relax and tell us how Midd used to be—or the influence of the Veteran on the coed mind—or that is best which governs less. This is the weekend we used to write about since 1942; that first HOMECOMING, when you can wear a white shirt (if you can find one). Now it's here, so let's all make it a success. Join the band; help the gym drive and if you can't, tell us who can; try to meet more people on campus; go to the game and help Mike Mann's cheerleaders, while at the same time you boost the team; go to the dance and meet Foo's Black Panthers. This is Middlebury, our college.

The schedule for JV football is as follows:

Date	Opponent	Time
Oct. 11	Williams Freshmen	3:00
Oct. 18	St. Michael's	2:00
Oct. 26	*Kimball Union Acad.	2:00

For the first time in 26 years Trinity college football team leaves the shores of the Connecticut River at Hartford this Saturday, Oct. 12, to oppose the Middlebury eleven on the gridiron of Porter Field at 2 o'clock.

Two Games on Record

Though Trinity college was founded in the early part of the nineteenth century this will be only the third meeting of the two schools' elevens. Both of these contests ended with lopsided scores and the victories divided. The first game was played in 1912, Trinity having by far the best of it with a 62-0 victory. In 1924 things were reversed with Middlebury scoring a 77-6 victory, a victory written into our record books as one of the highest scoring football games in which Middlebury participated.

Track Eliminations Today; Ski Team Starts Roadwork

The four o'clock trampling herd which has, for the past week, been leaving McCullough gym for the golf course and points south includes potential members of the varsity cross-country, ski, and board track relay teams.

Cross-Country

All men interested (and able) participated in time trials this afternoon at 4 p.m. on the cross-country course. The seven-man team which will carry Midd's colors to Wesleyan, Union, and U. V. M. —as well as fending-off Amherst and Bates on the home route—will be chosen from among this afternoon's fastest.

The 4.2-mile race will begin, as it did today, in front of the DKE House, follow South Main Street to the golf course, criss-cross this many times, and return on South Main St. to the starting line. Pre-war record on a similar Midd course is a challenging 23 minutes.

Board-Track Events

A few of Coach Brown's tracksters have been training during these road work-outs with no designs on the distance event, ambitious efforts being directed toward the board-track mile relay and spring races. Nevertheless, Coach Brown is urging all men interested in the distance or middle-distance running to take part in these daily conditioning jaunts.

Ski Team

Coach Sheehan's men have been running daily, preparing for an important skiing season, and especially for the eight-mile cross-country race. Upon completion of another eight-mile trail, Midd will have one four-mile and two eight-mile cross-country ski trails in the Breadloaf area.

The following men are on the afternoon road-work roster: Bangs, N. Bates, Cobden, R. Cushman, Dragone, Gilbert, Goodell, Goodrich, Gore, Hartz, Henderson, Joslin, LeBaron, McKee, Mason, Meyer, Morrissey, Newberger, Newman, E. Painter, H. Parker, Andrew Pepin, H. Richardson, M. Simon, Stebbins, Vyeros, J. Walker, and Westin.

Trinity Game To Be Played At Midd Field

This year we are not expecting any such overwhelming victory and certainly not an overwhelming defeat. Our boys gained very valuable experience during the Williams game. When they took the field last Saturday, only five Midd men had had previous college varsity experience. Their inexperience and over anxiety, which caused numerous penalties, were the telling blows that led to the William victory.

Prewar Stars

Trinity presents a team loaded with pre-war stars from the 1941 and 1942 teams. They didn't participate in intercollegiate football during the 1943, 1944, and 1945 seasons. But, from the '41 and '42 seasons they show a record of having lost only three games and Coach Dan E. Jessie is out to improve the record.

Among the outstanding men that should be watched Saturday are Tony Kunkiewicz, who probably will display one of the best passing arms that will be seen on Porter Field this season, and Frank Eblen, who already has proven to Middlebury track men his speed as he won the 100-yard dash in the Midd-Trinity track meet at Porter Field earlier this year. Trinity's strength is shown in the depth of their reserves. This is brought out by the fact that their third squad is rated up to pre-war standards.

Defeat Unimportant

Losing to the powerful Bates eleven 25-0 is hardly any criterion by which to

Doris J. Maurer '48 Represents College In Fashion Show

Representing Middlebury in a fashion show on August 29 sponsored by the Junior Dress Creators of New York, Inc., was Doris J. Maurer '48.

The show was held in the Perroquet Suite of the Waldorf Astoria Hotel and Miss Maurer was one of seven women who modeled and described a complete campus dress wardrobe. The women were all designated as outstanding honor students from their respective colleges and the wardrobes were chosen for the women during a week's visit in New York City.

The purpose of the show was to accent the stand, taken by the designers in New York, that college women fit into a dress category all their own, that they are no longer a breed of women who dress according to novelty creations stemming from campus polls or amateur design contests.

The seven women represented colleges and universities in Texas, Vermont, Minnesota, North Carolina, Washington and New York City.

It was discovered that while the women may disagree in politics, in Vermont and Texas they alike agree on the newest styles in skirt lengths. They all concluded that black date dresses were a necessity; that high heels were in order for dates, but that loafers and flats were preferable to saddles for campus wear; that high necks for daytime and low-cut necklines for evening were stylish, and that nothing could beat dirndle skirts and basque jackets. Hats were held in reservation by all for church and teas.

Midd Flying Club To Fly At Bristol, East Middlebury

Both the Bristol and the East Middlebury airports will be used in conjunction with the Flying club's organized activities, it was decided at the last meeting of the group in Forest Rec on Monday, September 30.

The decision is up to the individual member, who must designate the field at which he prefers to establish his flying fund of $50. The Flying club, organized last year, and the first of its kind at Middlebury, now has a membership of 20.

President Daniel T. Hedden '48 and Secretary-Treasurer Margaret K. Matulis '48, last year's officers, remain in office this year; however, a governing board of these two officers and two other members of the group has been organized to facilitate business transactions. Edward C. Welles '47 and Priscilla R. Noyes '49 were elected to these positions.

Mr. Hedden was Operations Officer and Flight Despatcher for the North American Airport Corporation of White Plains, N. Y., during the summer. Priscilla Noyes obtained her civilian pilot license last year. Prof. Benjamin F. Wissler, the faculty advisor of the club, acquired his license during the summer as did Jean H. Mace '47 on Saturday, Sept. 28.

Those wishing to qualify for membership in the club may apply to a member of the governing board at any time.

Rooters Boost Football Team At Gym Rally

That twenty-five percent of the Old Midd Spirit was behind the pugnacious Panther at Williamstown last Saturday was evidenced on Friday night by 250 loyal rooters, and some 25 odd bystanders, who enjoyed their first Pep Rally of the season with Laura-Lee Hopkins, Mike Mann, Milt Pike, and Ray Sacher calling signals for the debute-making cheerleaders.

McCullough gymnasium was the scene of this 30-minute Sing and Shout Feast at which Mike Mann incited vociferousness from behind his baby-blue megaphone. The favorite of the evening was definitely "Panther of Middlebury," while revered "Over Hill, Over Dale" was weak in popular support.

Several new cheers were introduced by the vivacious gymnasts, including the dirge with the acrobatic ending. Hoarseness was the only complaint of the hour, but during the egress an undaunted corps from the Women's college struck up the neglected "Old Midd Spirit."

The long and the short of it all, overheard after several M-I-D-D-L-E-B-U-R-Y-S: "Wish this were T-U-F-T-S."

Memorial Fund

put all money collected into the construction and endowment of the building rather than into professional fees.

Specialists Design College Memorial

The Proposed Physical Education unit is to be erected as a memorial to the 57 sons of Middlebury who gave their lives in "World War II." It was designed by specialists in college architecture to complement the buildings which are already part of the campus and to serve the needs of the college for years to come. Compared with the present sizes of gymnasium facilities of other New England colleges of approximately the same enrollment, Middlebury is sadly lacking.

The value of the other buildings on campus has increased since 1912 from $242,500 to $2,735,000, the Endowment from $295,000 to $4,790,000 and the enrollment from 305 to 1,089. The gym, built in 1912, however, is still valued at the same $52,000.

Mlle Will Offer Representative Position On Staff

Applicants Will Compete For Board Membership

Since 1936 Mademoiselle magazine has offered women undergraduates, interested in journalism, the opportunity of becoming Mademoiselle representatives at their respective colleges.

Mademoiselle Representative

This opportunity for becoming a College Board member is again being offered. Members are chosen on a competitive basis from college campuses throughout the country. To compete for membership, applicants must attend an accredited college and must submit a trial report along with a snapshot of herself and a list of her activities to the magazine. The trial report should consist of two typewritten, double-spaced pages on any new phase of campus life, whether it is academic, fashion, activity, or organization.

Guest Editors

After election to the College Board, members must submit a minimum of four assignments throughout the year, informative of college trends, snapshots, and ideas. Of the Board members, twenty of the most outstanding women will be chosen to go to New York at the expense of Mademoiselle for the month of June to guest edit the August college issue.

Jobs Conference

For the first time this year, the twenty guest editors will also attend a Mademoiselle conference on Jobs and Futures. The aim of the conference will be to help these college girls, and through them, others, to clarify their desires and find the vocational field best suited to them. At this conference, interviews with Mademoiselle editors and aptitude and interest tests will be featured.

The object of this project by Mademoiselle is to secure capable, interested representatives at colleges all over the country and to help these women begin their careers as successful journalists.

Dance Club Plans Benefit Exhibition October 29 In Gym

Members of Middlebury's Modern Dance Club are now planning for a benefit dance demonstration to be given on Tuesday evening, Oct. 29, in the college gymnasium.

Plans of this organization concerning its activities and productions for the coming year include, in addition to the dance demonstration, a Christmas program and a Spring production. Definite arrangements for these two undertakings will be made at later meetings and work on a Christmas production will begin almost immediately.

Mrs. Mary L. Lee, faculty director of the Dance Club, received an invitation asking Middlebury's Dance Group to participate in the Annual College Dance Demonstration. This demonstration will be held this coming spring at the Y. M. H. A. in New York City. Middlebury's representatives will be presenting their own thirty-minute demonstration of original dance compositions. Three other colleges participating in the program will do the same, each college thus dancing as a group.

Tryouts for the dance group, comprised of the more experienced dancers within the Modern Dance Club, were held this afternoon in the Pearsons recreation room. Each aspirant presented an original dance composition and was judged by a committee within the Dance Group.

Members of the entire club will meet every Tuesday evening in order to practice and to prepare their productions. Officers of this organization are Barbara Myers '49, president; Shirley March '48, vice-president; and Mollie Stevens '47, secretary-treasurer.

Homecoming Dance To Feature Bigger, Better Panther Band

Elizabeth C. Ordway '46

"A better outfit than ever before—we hope!" predict "Foo" Mathews, musical director, and "Cece" Steen, business manager of the Black Panthers, Midd's own dance band. All but three of the members are veterans of previous Panther years, so if that's any indication of this year's band, we know they'll be good. They have a vast assortment of new tunes and arrangements, and on top of all that, this year they're going to feature a vocalist, as yet still a gleam in the crystal ball. But we hope that they'll leave room for things like "Foo's" own Hey Babarebop and Cement Mixer. The band is bigger than last year's and the addition of a baritone sax will give it greater depth.

Here are the boys who will play for you this year: Trumpets, Al Jakeman, Joe Kearney, and Ray Nihan, a new member; Trombones, Dave Rowell and Bill Williams, another new member; Saxes, altos, "Foo" Mathews and "Cece" Steen, tenors, Roy Wilcox and Mort Harmon, baritone, Blake Pierce, also new to the band; Rhythm, Bob Seixas on the drums, "Nemo" Clark, bass, and Bob Trimmer at the piano.

Where and when can we hear these Panthers? Only two nights from tonight, Saturday, Oct. 12, at the Alumni Homecoming dance.

Middlebury Plays Trinity Saturday

attempt to judge the possible outcome of Saturday's encounter. Bates has one of the best teams it has had in years and also had the added advantage of having played two games before meeting Trinity. The score really isn't an indication of Trinity's strength, because they threatened at various times, showing potentialities of a very good attack, despite being held scoreless.

Working from the recently much publicized "T" formation, Coach Jessie has the biggest team that Middlebury will face this year. The team averages 200 pounds and is just under six feet. The line averages well over the 200 mark in weight and better than six feet in height.

Coach Nelson in speaking of the team commended their fine spirit and willingness to cooperate, adding, "The fellows were out there doing their best . . . I was well satisfied with their defensive play . . . With the limited time put in at practice (some of the squad had only two weeks) they did very well. Lack of practice contributed to their inexperience."

Culture Conference

Student Participation Wanted

We earnestly hope that all students, on and off campus, will participate in this poll. This, after all, is a conference designed to be of service to you. What better way than this, to have a personal share in its planning?

Conference Poll of Topics

1. Where are we going?—backward into war or forward into peace?
2. Are Democracy and Collectivism necessarily antagonistic?
3. What are the obstacles to a just and lasting peace?
4. What are the elements and qualities of the peace we are seeking?
5. Can there be peace in the world without justice at home?
6. Is the modern world a threat to individuality?
7. Is the loss of individual freedom the necessary price of peace and security?
8. ——————?

Bedford Reports Duo-Choir Group Of 88 Members

Eighty-eight students compose Middlebury's two choirs, the Monday-Wednesday-Friday and the Tuesday-Thursday-Saturday groups, so divided because of the unusually great number of members, an emergency measure.

Veterans and Newcomers

The majority of men were former choir members but over 50 percent of the women are new this year. Both choirs rehearse together Tuesday afternoons and Thursday nights, and they alternate on Sundays, depending on which group is singing that day. Mr. Bedford has already started practice on the Bach Mass in B minor, which will be presented in the spring, and for this selection part rehearsals are necessary. States the professor, "This year there is more talent than we've had any year since the start of the war." With the continuance of the hard work done by the students, he hopes to maintain Midd's pre-war reputation of rating one of the best Eastern college choirs.
